Pierre-Marie Beyle (1838-1902) born in Lyon, comes to Paris to study there. First an independent illustrator, he presented for the first time a work at the 1867 Salon "Une Bohémienne". From 1877 to 1878 he exhibited a series of paintings made in Algeria. The Parisian painter then developed a passion for Normandy, where his main subjects were the Dieppe coast and the life of fishermen. Beyle participated in
