Description

Animated landscape in relief in a stucco and gilded wood frame from the end of the 19th century. On a background of blue sky a little cloudy stands out on three levels this imaginary landscape. To the right and left of the decor, steep rocks painted in natural colors. The luxuriant vegetation that decorates them is made of dried natural elements. In the background, a stone bridge, on one side a small house, on the other a character, perhaps a nun, completes the decor.
It is a little naive work like any popular art object.
Some chips in the stucco of the frame, but the glass old and original.
