Description

Chandelier model Marie Thérèse with 24 lights, work of the 1950s.
Composed of a gilded metal structure covered by plates and glass cups, all adorned with crystal pendants.
The 24 lights are broken down over three floors, six arms leave the body of the chandelier leaving a light on the first and second floors, then two on the last. The body of the chandelier is suspended by a bronze chain then a bronze ceiling lamp covered with a cut crystal ceiling lamp. Note two small shocks at the top of the crystal ceiling light, hardly visible when hung.

All our lights are fully restored by our workshop, both in terms of structure, pendants and electricity and are therefore in perfect working
