Description

Stunning blue schist carved panel, frieze of soldiers alternating with Roman columns, Gandhara period (IInd - IVth century AD),

It's funny to see the influence of European architecture of this period with an this iconography and Indian or Buddhist themes.

We just keep in mind that these pieces are contemporary from Alexander's great conquests through the Asia and artistic and cultural exchanges (This question about Gandhara art was also the theme a few years ago of a great exhibition in Paris)

Sizes Length 52cm - High 9,5cm and thickness 4cm

Good condition and great sand patina
