Description

Rare smoking kit in gilded bronze from the Art Nouveau period, made around 1900. Superb naturalistic decor representing a beetle on the small pot / ashtray and a pretty moth with outstretched wings on the large covered pot. These insects evolve among branches and leaves of ivy, all against a background representing a wooden fence. The details are truly startlingly realistic. Our set consists of a large covered pot, a small ashtray pot and a match stand. All resting on a large platter. This kit is of remarkable quality, the bronze is extremely thick. The set is in good condition, normal traces of use are present (notably tobacco inside the smaller pot, see photo) tray dimensions: 33.5cm x 22cm match stand: 9.5cm x 6.5cm height covered pot: 9.5cm height small pot: 6cm Shipping costs
