Description

Large allegorical lithograph of the surgical profession signed A.Barrere. the author satirically and fiercely depicts various medico-surgical professions of the mid-1800s. the print is still in its original frame, a few insect holes in the upper right margin visible in the photo. the glass has a crack at the bottom left. I suggest removing the glass as any breakage could damage the print during shipping. Due to the pandemic, the times can be very long and we suggest you have patience during this difficult time. we guarantee delivery or refund.
