Description

Beautiful oil on canvas representing a view of Collonges la Rouge, a charming little village of Corrèze (19). This painting shows us more precisely a rear view of the Saint-Pierre church, originally dating from the 11th and 12th centuries and fortified in the 16th century, still keeping traces of defensive architecture. Collonges la Rouge takes its name from the red sandstone construction that makes it so typical. This village is labeled "most beautiful village in France", is listed in the inventory of historical monuments. This painting was made by Louis Peyrat (1911-1999).
