Description

Very nice unsigned watercolor attributed to the great animal artist Georges Frédéric Rötig. The artwork is framed in a simple modern frame, which measures 39 cm by 48 cm and 24 cm by 33 cm without the frame. It represents a herd of wild boars in a winter landscape. he was a pupil of the École des Beaux-Arts in Paris and that there were as professors Jules Lefebvre, Jean-Pierre Laurens and Benjamin-Constant; he received several awards at the Salon of French artists (notably in 1903) and, in 1913, the Rosa-Bonheur Prize. Georges-Frédéric Rötig's work is essentially, if not exclusively, composed of animal scenes: stags, hinds, roe deer, wild boars, pheasants, partridges, but also animals living in the mountains or in the moors (chamois, elk, etc.), finally wild animals (lions, for example) and
