Description

Large and rare pair of Etruscan polychrome porcelain vases with gilded highlights and blue background, decorated with swans, flower baskets and stylized patterns. The handles are winding and medallion with a woman's head in golden biscuit with a superb alternation of mast and burnished from the feet to the neck. Undoubtedly attributed to a large Parisian manufacture, research is underway to determine this one as well as the numbers and letters under each foot. The whole is in very good state of conservation, to note: some very tiny wear to the gold. Extremely decorative for enthusiasts of the early 19th century.
