Description

For those who prefer to avoid the option of gold, there are also wooden mirrors. happy by their colors and their material, some are even considered "dandies". this rectangular shape with its old mercury ice displays straight lines that are almost contemporary. Its precious species made of bird's eye maple and rosewood evoke the style impelled by the Duchess of Berry (beautiful daughter of Charles X) for light woods. We owe him this type of creation born of a luxurious lifestyle characterized by light woods often adorned with bronze or inlaid with darker woods (rosewood in this case for ours). To offer without moderation to a classic interior as to a modern interior for the sobriety of its lines.
