Description

Important old painting, dated and signed in the middle on the right T. Degeorges 1843, oil on canvas representing the portrait of a man in costume in a landscape. Wearing a medal of the Royal Order of the Legion of Honor, his left arm slightly bent, he pauses in military attire, his waist encircled by a cord, on which the hilt of a saber rests. A precocious pupil of David at 16, Thomas Degeorges worked in Paris then moved to Clermont-Ferrand around 1840. A talented portrait painter, he painted the local and Parisian bourgeoisie. Old restoration on the outskirts of good quality, relining, cleaning, style frame in gilded wood. The female counterpart of our painting is for sale in a separate advertisement.
