Description

Sivas carpet, originally from the depths of Anatolia, so close to Armenia and the Caucasus in very good condition.

This magnificent colorful rug, living in wool on wool, is from the first part of the 20th century, it measures 136 cm wide by 174 cm long. At first glance, we might think of a Caucasian rug with its two big stars and its vibrant colors, but no this rug is indeed an Anatolian of superb quality, possessing a rare graphic for the Sivas type. The changes of wool, the colors show us the good village side of this carpet knotted by women for the trade or their personal use. These rural carpets, knotted by the women of the villages, are always full of fantasy and liveliness, the carefully spun wool is of very fine quality, soft and fine, the patterns have been there since the dawn of time. For this model we clearly feel the Caucasian influence, medallions in stars, field, and borders, but transmitted with a certain naivety. This rug has been professionally cleaned and environmentally friendly. State of discovery, not being a relentless restorative.

I have a great passion for these unpretentious carpets but which have a shine, a liveliness that can only be found in Anatolia.
