Description

Late 19th century drawing board / architect.

The top is completely tiltable and sliding from right to left thanks to two sliding systems adjustable by butterflies.

The barrel-shaped central foot contains a rack, allowing height management.

The "X" foot has 4 casters and two counterweights fixed below.

The top is in rosewood, the shaft and the foot are in walnut. A plaque on the top of the rack reads: "Table Soleil System G. Gay Brevetté SGD G, E. CHOUANARD, Engineer Sole Concessionaire".

Very good general condition, all systems work.

Note that the top should have a hinged edge, currently there are only two hinge parts (see photos).
