Description

"Yvonne Mottet (1906-1968) The Clown, grease pencil, Ecole De Paris, La Jeune Peinture" Signed lower right, with its original frame. 93x74cm
Yvonne Mottet, born January 6, 1906 in Lyon, died of a long illness on September 12, 1968 in Saint-Denis-sur-Loire. One of the 5 founding painters of the Man Witness group from 1949.
The Man Witness Manifesto: The Man Witness is one of the most important manifestos of 20th century art. In a world where modern art rhymes with superficiality, egocentricity and progress, the witness man is a cry for a return to the human, to feelings in painting. Eight painters constitute the heart of the witness man: Bernard Buffet, Simone Dat, Michel de Gallard, Bernard Lorjou, André Minaux, Yvonne Mottet, Paul Rebeyrolle and Michel Thompson. Peinture: this salon identifies itself with the new figurative generation and for several years imposes an aesthetic inspired by the Manifesto of the Witness. The salon of painters witnesses of their time: the first salon opened its doors in February 1952 at the modern art exhibition of the city of Paris. It brings together sixty-two sculptors or painters of all generations representing different trends
