Description

View from a wooded height over a valley and in its center a village in the German pre-Alps and the majestic mountain range in the background. This work by the German painter Curt Ziegra is executed in pastel chalk and charcoal, using this technique to harmonize the clear lines of the mineral (the mountain, the steep and the church) with the imprecise and random features of the living, of the natural element (the morning mists which float above the valley, the grove in the foreground). Subtle and seductive palette of colors. Signed and dated lower right "Curt Ziegra 1920" Neat modern framing
