It includes 2 sets of tokens (28 ivory tokens (?), And 30 stained wood tokens) as well as two leather cups

The feet, the bottom of which is tinted black, are charmingly plated with green framing nets
They end with four small original gilt bronze clogs.

Oak frame,
Very good state of conservation.

The restoration was done in conservation.
The varnish used was made by our cabinetmaker according to 18th century recipes (Venetian white varnish called Roubo varnish) which is a transparent and very solid varnish.
Its application was carried out with a cloth, according to the techniques of the 18th century.

Stamped twice "B. BUTTE" with JME (Jurande punch) on the edge of 2 sleepers Parisian work from the Louis XVI period around 1780

Dimensions: 73 x 125 x 61 cm

Benoit BUTTE (known as Beauclair)
Cabinetmaker in Paris, born around 1720, died
February 4, 1803.
The Maîtrise was conferred on him on June 3, 1767, when he lived in rue St Nicolas.
He practiced there for some time before moving his workshop to the Faubourg St Germain, first rue Coquillière then then rue des Saints-Pères.
We find him in relation with several great merchants and with the chaser Desseule, who surely worked on the fittings of his furniture.

This craftsman had successors by the name of Beauclair until the reign of Charles X

The count of Salverte quotes from him a wooden chest of drawers inlaid with vases and utensils.
