Description

Very beautiful vase covered in decorated glass: potichomania technique.

this is a famous technique at the beginning of the 19th century where we decorated glass objects by fixing colored engravings inside vases, vases, wig balls and ending with layers of paintings more or less colored in order to give a very decorative effect seen from the outside by taking up in a way the style of arte povera objects very fashionable at the end of the 18th century.

our covered vase is of good proportion and offers Chinese decor:

dragons, court scenes, hunting scenes are skillfully set and stand out against a slightly bluish background.

the effect is remarkable and very decorative.

it has a few small chips but the whole is in good
