Description

Framed in a medallion, a turned blackened wood and gilded bronze frame of the 19th century, it is a relief of compressed burl wood, cover of a "demi-solde" snuffbox, illustrated of a terrible scene from the Retreat from Russia by the Napoleonic armies, circa 1812 Wood of the medallion, hot pressed in a steel mold, has kept this distressing image in good relief, and has a beautiful patina. French wounded attacked by the Cossacks

Good condition, no flaws.

Napoleonic legend, circa 1820, probably bought at the time by the survivors of this disaster ... the original drawing is due to Hippolyte Lecomte, 1817. Take a good look at photos Dimensions: Medallion: 7.5cm , frame: 13cm in diameter; Insured and tracked shipping from France,
