ISADORA was created by DANIELLE POULLAIN in the 70s. ISADORA Paris jewelry makes the Haute Couture fashion shows. Danielle Poullain is in demand by major fashion designers. She works for the couturiers Karl Lagerfeld, Yves Saint-Laurent, Tiffany, Caron, Givenchy, Balmain, Azzaro, l'Oréal and Shu Uemura. These jewels are all in galathite. Galathite is also called "milk stone". It comes from the transformation of casein from milk. It is one of the first biodegradable plastics. Brooches, earrings,
