Description

Attributed to Eugène Lami (1800-1890) A maid feeding rabbits Watercolor on paper Bears a monogram E L on the lower right 12.5 x 12.5 cm In good condition, some foxings in the upper part Framed: 37 x 37 cm Vintage mount with important traces of foxings This charming scene has been attributed to Eugene Lami as indicated on the vintage mounting. It's still important to be careful with attribution and do not rely on the most evident proofs but it's very close to the art and style of Lami. Each very refined detail of the work also indicated it was painted by a very good hand.
