Description

Charming, small sideboard with 2 Louis XV period doors, with lovely sculptures, in natural wood.

The low cross is slightly scalloped. It rests on curved legs.
A small flower is carved on each of the doors, bringing dynamism to the work.

The Louis XV style is defined above all by its curves and curves. Its ornamental motifs, as we find on our furniture, are friezes of foliage, rolled up flowers ... The moldings are light and scalloped. This technique consists of cutting the piece of wood according to a defined profile and hollowing it out on the outside or inside.
