Description

Elegant sinizing "Buddha" pendulum in cloisonné enamel and gilded bronze, created for the Escalier de Cristal, most likely by Edouard Lièvre. This famous House called on the most prestigious artists for the creation of objects of great refinement that it offered to a cultivated elite. The central composition was carried out with perfect mastery, both in terms of the partitioning of the enamels and the colors chosen. It is signed "HMP". The movement is also signed and numbered, and is in perfect working order. France, end of the 19th century.
