Description

Description:
Chiseled and gilded bronze, brown patina.
These Louis XVI style candelabras are made up of an architectural base with angles and square projections. Four sheet cushioning and two coats of arms adorn this base.
A child faun sits on a pedestal and carries the winding sconces with a rich torch finial, pine cone and acanthus leaves. The quality of carving and drawing is of the level of the great contemporary makers of these candelabras such as Dasson or Picard for example. These lights are accompanied by their pendulum. The clock is placed on the same base as the lights. Panels in reserve on all four sides are adorned with very beautiful decorations of extreme finesse. We will see Athenian fire pots on a canopy, foliage
