Pair Of Tall Satsuma Vases, 19th Century

6 900 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Parfait état

Diameter : 55 cm

Height : 112 cm

Description

For this unusual size is worth taking the time to admire these two large Japanese ceramic satsuma vases. There is a rich scene mixing several Japanese dignitaries and samurai warriors, including the emperor. The whole is richly enhanced with a colorful palette mixed with gold. Each vase is signed and presents at the birth of the neck a head, open mouth, of a Fo lion.

Traditionally made in the Kagoshima region (Kyushu), satsuma ceramics are undoubtedly one of the most famous in Japan without being the oldest. This technique did not appear in the archipelago until the very end of the 16th century and did not really take off until the 19th century when Europeans' enthusiasm for this ceramic was
