Description

copied and pasted from the previous text ... I like it, sorry if I repeat myself. I wonder if, as a child, I would have been as skilled as them? I'm talking about the kids of the Lobi people, over there in Ivory Coast .... Posted on the lookout, slingshot bandaged, they waited in cover, for their prey to pass within range ... was not lions or wildebeest, but they were still proud of their catches after the hunting party. Object: Catapult Ethnicity: Lobi Origin: Ivory Coast Authenticity: obvious Source: private collection Dating: late 19th century estimate Description: monoxyl object representing a man standing on a slingshot.
