Description

Porcelain breast bowl and bronze mount in Greek Revival style.
Some examples of famous breast cup or bowl:
-The breast bowl or nipple bowl from the service of the Sèvres factory for the Rambouillet dairy, which legend says it was modeled after the image of the left breast of Queen Marie Antoinette.
-the breast cut of Jean Baptiste Claude Odiot after the breast of Pauline Borghese sister of Napoleon, known for its frivolity.
-the electrum breast cup at Lindos on the island of Rhodes in the temple of the neck brace which would have been molded on Helena's breast and which was considered the most beautiful breast in the world. Would our copy be the porcelain representation of Helene's breast?
Was it made in France, in Sèvres?

The shape and texture of the breast are very realistic, the porcelain is very fine.
Regarding the condition, the porcelain cup is fractured over the entire piece, glued back more than 20 years ago, therefore to be restored.
This object comes from a former Lyonnaise estate and has not been auctioned.
