Description

In the East, there is plateau and plateau, there for once, it is a piece of choice, which leaves no room for doubt as to the dexterity of its creator. The metals are perfectly edge to edge without burrs, that's what makes the big difference in this ancient art.

Inside a medallion of fluttering silver birds, surrounded by a lattice frieze.

Around three large calligraphies in silver separated by three mandorles of copper and silver.

Another frieze brings us to the inner edge, there six silver calligraphies in thuluth placed in cartouches with pendants separated by six silver mandorles, the whole of weight, more than one kg and a marvelous finesse of work.

Of course, there is a plateau and a plateau !
