Description

This plate does not bear any manufacturing mark but, given the origin of the noble coat of arms, belonging to the noble and ancient Castracane line of Urbino, they should be made in the Italian region of Marche. Note the inevitable spider web of "cracks" in the icing, general yellowing and a small visible chip. These flaws are documented in the photos of this ad. Do not hesitate to ask for more photos if those inserted seem insufficient to you. Dimensions of the plate: about 46x47 cm
