Description

Discovered in the chests of a Chinese junk wreck that sailed the seas of Indonesia in the 18th century, this remarkable tableware dates from the Ching Dynasty.

Each bowl, in exceptional colors - from celadon green to powder pink edged with mother-of-pearl - is strewn with seashells and centuries-old sediments, a moving witness to the maritime expeditions of the time.

These bowls are sold in sets of 3, presented on a mat black metal wall base, for a "museum piece" effect.
