Description

Elegant Louis XVI sloping desk in solid walnut and country wood veneer: walnut, acacia and yellow wood. This geometric marquetry formed of diamonds appears as a succession of perfectly proportioned cubes, on the sides, the top and the inclined plane. This flap opens with a key with original lock in working order. Once unfolded, it is held by two iron calipers allowing perfect stability. The writing space is lined with beautiful leather embellished with a cold stamp, golden vignettes and central motif. The interior in walnut and oak has a sliding cover in the center, revealing a secret storage space. Six small drawers with lens buttons and a two-row locker complete the set. On the belt, this remarkable piece of furniture has a false drawer in the center and four inlaid drawers on the sides in the same
