Description

Office armchair in light oak, rotating and adaptable in height to more or less 8 cm. Its trapezoidal backrest is curved and finely barred vertically. The armrests on curved consoles are recessed. Note that the seat is slightly hollowed out, and will thus marry the shapes of its occupant. It is supported by a cast iron brace, connected to a quadripod foot. This is where you will find a screw and the mechanism to adjust this seat to the desired height. A sober and efficient Armchair model, which, with its light color and its vintage note, will perfectly fit into an office with contemporary decoration.

Period: 1940
