Description

Pair of Bergeres with structures in solid Blond Mahogany and covered with a Salmon-coloured Velvet fabric with Galon finishes. The seats, with coverings in good condition, owe their comfort to the preserved quality of their springs. The curved and enveloping backrests have a molding around their edges. They end with two armrests, with "whiplash" consoles, and with sculptures that continue on the two arched front legs of each of these Bergeres. The two rear legs are more sober and saber, and all are equipped with wheels for easy mobility.

Period: Mid-19th century / 1850
