Description

Bronze proof with brown patina representing two majestic gazelles, signed on the embankment "I. Rochard" and placed on a slightly bevelled portor marble base. Irénée Félix René Rochard (1906-1984) is a French ornamental sculptor known for his representations of animals. Passionate and fascinated, he gives soul to his works thanks to his meticulous observation of nature. This bronze represents two gazelles in motion, alert, looking in the same direction. One, with her head raised, seems curious about the world around her and seems attentive to the slightest noise. The other, more fearful, closely follows its fellow creature. These charismatic gazelles are highlighted by the artist in this poetic and intriguing scene.
