Description

Beautiful traveller's cutlery, from the 18th century, contained in its leather sheath, consisting of a fairly powerful knife and fork (game cutlery?) as well as a curious pointed punch with a square section.

Handles of the cutlery are horn, decorated and reinforced with silver rivets cut into ornate crosses, the miter and the periphery of each handle are silver, finely engraved.

Models similar to the Zurich museum, see last photo, but can also be found in Austria and Tirol....

our cutlery is a beautiful model, the 2-pronged fork in particular.

in case: 21cm x 7.5cm. Fork and knife: 19cm.

Condition: Leather sheath is torn, disjointed, but has the merit of having reached us. Blade of
