Description

Beautiful Louis XVI chest of drawers in light solid mahogany and mahogany veneer composed of two drawers on the front concealing the central crosspiece and forming a single rectangle surrounded by a half-round brass rod. This furniture is furnished with four bronze handles surrounding in the upper part a discreet bronze entrance accompanied by its key. The lock in perfect working order blocks the two drawers. These feature oak bottoms and sides. Each has a bottom made up of two panels with a central crosspiece in the middle for better support. On each side of this chest of drawers we find a jumping and cutaway foot provided with grooves stopped at two-thirds ending in gadroon. The lower part of the foot ends very simply in a sheath. The sides of this piece of furniture are
