Description

This pair is formed by massive vases in white Carrara marble containing bouquets of flowers and foliage in gilded bronze. One of the three varieties of flowers represented are lilies which end in a binet that can accommodate a candle. Ivy leaves and tendrils bring a touch of lightness and mobility to the bouquet. Each candelabrum contains nine lights. The baluster-shaped vase is tapered at the level of its shoulder and its base. The foot of the vase rests on a gilded bronze base, bordered by a frieze of finely chiseled water leaves. Four acanthus leaves surround the foot of the vase and connect it to its base. The pedestal that supports the vase is in gilded bronze. Ideal mantelpiece set for Château. In the taste of Eugene Hazart. 20th century in the style of the 18th century 113 cm high
