Description

Very beautiful cage chandelier decorated with leafy branches in natural painted iron and a very rich composition of delicate porcelain flowers in the style of Meissen. This chandelier has 8 branches, grouped on four uprights, ending in cut iron finials and basins. French work around 1880, in the style of the XVIIIIs. - some small chips. - this chandelier is not electrified and will require the intervention of a specialist for this. This light is a good illustration of the taste for a return to nature in vogue in the 18th century.
