Description

French school circa 1900/10: "Descent of the chariot", pastel 44 X 29 cm, mounted in a black and gold NIII frame 77 X 53 cm (small accidents). In addition to being squared, certainly intended for enlargement, perhaps for a fresco that it will eventually be possible to find, this drawing suffered from the boredom of a kid who, being bored, had fun drawing lines of perforations at the tip of the compass! He shows us a young woman descending from an antique chariot where there are many companions, some wearing the great beret of the rapins of the time, which makes me think of a disguised party like "Bal des Quat'Zarts » which celebrated in an unbridled way the end of the year of study... Quite close to artists like Chéret or Grün. Do not hesitate to ask us for photos or additional
