Period : 18th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Earthenware

Description

Superb and rare pair of earthenware bouquetières from the 18th century. Model representing a chest of drawers simulating the front of the drawers. Very curved in shape, the whole is decorated with floral motifs on the sides and with avcanthus leaves on the uprights. The top is pierced with 15 holes in each of the dressers in order to present flowers there, surprisingly the holes are circled in yellow on one of them and blue on the other. Quality work in very good condition, very slight scratches due to time....rare quality work in pairs and with colors that have remained bright.
