Description

Contemporary openwork ring in 18 kt yellow gold (eagle's head hallmark), adorned in its center with a Japanese cultured pearl. As if suspended from the hollow of two crossed arches, the pearl is visible from the side and also from below.

Endowed with a beautiful surface despite a slight crease that is imperceptible when worn, this pearl offers a beautiful orient, and captures by mirror effect what surrounds it (therefore, in the photos, the different marks and shadows on the pearl are not only reflections...). The two crossed arcs contrast with the sphere of the pearl since they are square in section; they are set on two sides with brilliant cut diamonds, which gives this ring a jeweled finish and a nice extra sparkle. The judicious mounting of this pearl, not prominent, makes the ring easy to wear, and the pearl in
