Description

Bicentenary Bonnetière from the Loire Valley in blond Cherry, opening with a carved door cut and molded with a charming asymmetrical pattern ending in scrolls. At two thirds of the door we find a crosspiece in the same spirit as the molding in the upper part. A beautiful original entrance in cut iron accompanies an original lock and key also in perfect working order. On the right, the original iron hinges have 3 fasteners. On each side of the facade we observe a slightly rounded foot composed of three grooves ending in a snail foot. This bonnetière will be noticed by its inlaid crosspieces. The upper crosspiece is decorated with a rectangle made up of boxwood heart elements. In the center, a diamond mixing light wood and dark wood is surrounded by wind stars. The lower crosspiece uses the same composition.
