Description

Oil on canvas signed Emile Lévy* representing a bucolic view of three women (including a berry picker) and children surrounding a pretty antique statue in a wooded garden, from the 19th century. This painting is in good condition. Signed lower right. A note: some small accidents on the canvas (see red arrows: at the top under the golden band, at the wrist of a woman, in a dress), wear of time, see photos. * Émile Lévy (1826-1890) was a French painter and illustrator. Son of Samuel Lévy, an accountant, and Rachel Horwitz, Émile Lévy was a student of François-Édouard Picot and Abel de Pujol at the Beaux-Arts in Paris. He obtained a third first prize of Rome in painting in 1854 on the theme Abraham washing the feet of the three angels. He was a resident of the Villa Medici in Rome from 1855 to 1857. He was
