Description

Large circular tray with flat bottom, rounded walls and scalloped edge, in chiseled copper, decorated in the center with a large roundel with tangled patterns radiating from a rosette.

A large frieze enclosing two cartouches of calligraphic inscriptions and four epigraphic roundels, The scalloped walls.

Very beautiful model of the hand-chiseled tray from the Middle East and the second half of the 19th century.

An emblematic object of oriental life, the tray is present in all of the Islamic art. In brass, copper, incorporated with silver nets the most beautiful pieces of Persian art or Ottoman art are treated like jewels, they are complex pieces of rare beauty.

The finesse of the carvings shows the dexterity of
