Description

Large trumeau from the end of the 18th century or the beginning of the 19th century with rich gilded decorative sculpted motifs in the Baroque style harmoniously distributed.

This set of golden sculptures first dominates the summit with a high sheaf of exploded pomegranates stuck on a basket of laurels in an entourage of rising acanthus leaves in windings. The uprights of the overmantel are on either side embellished with gadrooned leaves, scrolls, half foliage and eventful acanthus. An elegant central lacquered surface enriched with gilded sculpted motifs of the same nature at the top and bottom highlights in its center an original mirror in iridescent and thick mercury.

Mirror trumeau in excellent condition in oak (heavy) totally with its original parquet floor, on
