marquetry, showcasing intricate botanical and geometric motifs delicately inlaid with brass and set against a dark or red ground. These meticulously executed details bear witness to the exceptional craftsmanship of the era and are characteristic of the Boulle revival prevalent in the Napoleon III period.

Rich Gilt Bronze Ornamentation: The table is sumptuously decorated with sculptures and ornaments typical of the Napoleon III style, all in finely cast and gilded bronze (ormolu). The legs feature elegantly carved motifs of acanthus leaves and flowers, while the sides are embellished with sculpted pilasters topped with classical Corinthian capitals. A richly carved border of acanthus leaves and flowers elegantly frames the tabletop, enhancing its luxurious appeal.

Style, Period, and Exceptional Value: This table is firmly rooted in the Napoleon III period (1852-1870), a time characterized by a pronounced revival of historical styles and an emphasis on luxury and grandeur in decorative arts. The combination of intricate marquetry, sumptuous gilt bronze, and classical ornamentation is a hallmark of this opulent era.

A Coveted Collectible and Versatile Piece: This Napoleon III table is a piece of furniture of exceptional quality, reflecting the refinement and luxury of its period. Its remarkable state of preservation and meticulous details make it a highly coveted collectible, capable of significantly enhancing any interior. While described as a card table, its versatile design could also lend itself to use as a refined dining table or an elegant console. Its high value is attributed to its superior quality, distinctive style, and excellent condition.
