Belmondo, and produced several group exhibitions. In 1972, he met Dunoyer de Segonzac who encouraged him and bought his first bronzes. In 1983, he was elected to the Vice - Presidency of French Artists. Retrospective of Coquillay's work at the Salon d'Automne 1992. Prix Jehan des Vignes-Rouges, Academy of Versailles in 1993. Appointed Painter of the Navy in 1995. "Coquillay has been interested in and practiced pastel since the 1970s. Light and serenity prevail both in his sculptures and his pastels. Promoted Painter Officel of the Navy since 1995, the artist abandons, in his graphic work, the human body for the landscape. Soft vollonements and strikes on the clear horizon of the spaces open are privileged here. Captured in the particular clarity of the end of the day, this appeased nature makes its fleeting puddles of sunshine sing and unfolds its blurred skies. Using a tender palette, full of finesse, Coquillay composes tasty pastels with vibrant, warm, golden lights."
