Description

Royal Antique is delighted to present this exquisite mantel clock, which immediately captivates the eye with its poignant sculptural group depicting a man tenderly holding a baby. Crafted from bronze with a subtly varnished surface that enhances its gleaming quality, this timepiece embodies the grandeur and refined aesthetic of the Empire style in France. Harmonious Composition and Superb Materials: Figural Masterpiece: The central element of this clock is a compelling bronze sculpture of a powerful male figure, likely Hercules, tenderly cradling a child, possibly Telephus. This touching depiction evokes themes of strength, nurture, and legacy, adding profound narrative depth to the piece. Luxurious Malachite and Brass Inlays: The clock is magnificently set upon a substantial base crafted from malachite, a semi-precious stone celebrated for its deep green color and intricate natural veining. The malachite base is further enhanced by delicate inlays of brass and striking gilt bronze mounts featuring elegant plant and geometric motifs, lending an air of exceptional elegance and refinement to the ensemble.

Ornate Bronzework: The clock's main case, integrated with the sculpture, features intricate gilt bronzework, complementing the malachite and bronze sculpture beautifully. The detailing is finely executed, showcasing the superior craftsmanship of the period.

Enamel Dial: The clock face is likely enameled and features Roman numerals for the hours and Arabic numerals for the minutes, adding to the classic aesthetic and ensuring legibility.

Remarkable Preservation and Functionality: This magnificent clock has retained its original beauty and integrity despite the passage of time. The bronze sculpture bears no visible signs of wear, and the intricate inlays remain perfectly intact. Furthermore, the clock's mechanism operates with precision and chimes the hours regularly, confirming its enduring functionality.

A Decorative and Functional Masterpiece: Beyond its primary function of timekeeping, this clock stands as a true work of art, destined to grace any sophisticated interior as a distinguished centerpiece. The tender sculpture, combined with the refined details and luxurious materials, makes it a unique and timeless acquisition for collectors and connoisseurs of fine antique horology.
