Description

Designed in the 60s by the famous designer Paul Secon, this spectacular lamp called "Swag" is made of crenellated fins in reflective plexiglass stretched with nylon threads. It rests on a large chromed metal tripod which gives it stability and its air of a flying saucer. It diffuses a very pleasant light which gradually increases thanks to its 3 bulbs with delayed start. Very well designed thanks to a material that multiplies the light and gives the impression of a much higher number of bulbs. Its height of approximately 62 cm makes it a floor lamp. All these elements (wires, switch, socket, bulbs, tripod pads, etc.) are original. Good condition. Traces of dust and light normal signs of wear. Local pickup. Many other objects to discover in my stand at the antique fairs in which I participate. Follow my gallery to be informed of
