Description

We present this renaissance style table with Italian extensions in walnut. It rests on four fluted feet which themselves rest on skates. In the middle three architectural columns. On one profile a sculpture representing Neptune and on the other profile a reclining and naked woman in the tradition of the school of Fontainebleau. The photos speak for themselves, this table is ornate and carved throughout. It is from the 16th / 17th / 18th period but in no way from the 19th century.
