Description

Manfred Schatz - "Three Riders on the Beach" Oil on canvas · 60 × 90 cm · Signed lower right An oil on canvas depicting three riders on the beach, by Manfred Schatz, signed lower right M. Schatz. In comparison with the artist's larger compositions, this more concentrated format distills the energy of the motif: the gallop, the spray, the raking light on sand -- three riders caught in the instant, in the tradition of Impressionist plein air painting carried to its point of greatest intensity. Manfred Schatz (Bad Stepnitz on the Szczecin Lagoon, 1925 - Meerbusch, 2004) studied at the School of Applied Arts in Stettin and subsequently at the Academy of Fine Arts in Berlin-Charlottenburg, where he became at the age of 17 the youngest student at a German art school. After his captivity in Russia, from which he returned in 1949, he devoted himself entirely to his true calling: the instantaneous capture of animals in motion in their natural environment. True to the plein air Impressionist tradition, he developed charcoal drawings and oil studies on location, from which he later composed large, emotionally powerful studio paintings. His work -- animated by his distinctive language of attack and flight -- also expresses a deep commitment to the preservation of wildlife and habitats threatened by human encroachment. Manfred Schatz was awarded the honorary title of Most Important Wildlife Painter, the German Federal Cross of Merit, and served as Professor of Painting at the University of Davenport, Iowa, USA.
